A check with Mr. [REDACTED] of the Office of Logistics revealed that non-SL designees are welcome to attend any or all of a half a dozen or more courses offered by that Office, including the Logistics Seminar which is for "top level" personnel and is operated on a "by invitation only" basis. Personnel from the Comptroller's Office conduct sessions in some of these courses.

It is possible that Mr. [REDACTED] is advocating the establishment of a single course which integrates much of what is contained in existing courses. We would be glad to attempt to set up a program of this nature. However, if we did, we would still be faced with the same problem which confronts the Comptroller's Office: getting the appropriate people to enroll. Although we could probably count on quite a few potential students from within the DD/S components, we would hesitate to commit time and effort to course development without knowing whether there is a serious requirement within the DD/P and the DD/I areas for an integrated course.
